WARNING: Clinical experimental data have demonstrated that corticosteroids administered orally or by injection to animals may induce the first state of parturition if used during the last trimester of pregnancy and may precipitate premature parturition followed by dystocia, fetal death retained placenta and metritis.
Additionally, corticosteroid administered to dogs, rabbits and rodents during pregnancy have resulted in cleft palate in the offspring. In dogs, other congenital anomalies have resulted; deformed forelegs, phocomelia, and anasarca.
PRECAUTIONS: Dermalone Ointment is not intended for the treatment of deep abscesses or deep-seated infections such as inflammation of the lymphatic vessels. Parental antibiotic therapy is indicated in these infections.
Dermalone Ointment
(Nystatin-Neomycin Sulfate-Thiostrepton-Triamcinolone Acetonide Ointment) has been extremely well tolerated. Cutaneous reactions attributable to this use have been extremely rare. The occurrence of systemic reaction is rarely a problem with tropical administration.
There is some evidence that corticosteroids can be absorbed after tropical application and cause systemic effects. Therefore, an animal receiving Dermalone Ointment therapy should be observed closely for signs such as polydipsia, polyuria, and increased weight gain. This ointment is not generally recommended for the treatment of deep or puncture wounds or serious burns.

Sensitivity to neomycin may occur. If redness, irritation or swelling persists or increases, discontinue use. Do not use if pus is present since the drug may allow the infection to spread. Keep this and all other medications out of reach of children.
Avoid ingestion. Oral or parenteral use of corticosteroids (depending on dose, duration of use and specific steroid) may result in inhibition of endogenous steroid production following drug withdrawal.
